

I had been thrilled with the appearance and usefulness of video relay services - a near equivalence to what hearing people experience when they use the phone. You can imagine my dismay when the reimbursement for the service was cut and the quality started to suffer - back to the bad old days of waiting for service, etc., etc. Please restore the former funding so we deaf people can once again experience almost as good service as hearing people take for granted.